

WIVES OF FAMOUS WORLD'S SERIES LEADERS

Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

Mrs. Connie Mack (wearing glasses) and Mrs. John J. McGraw.

None of the rabid fans who attend the world's series games between the Giants and Athletics will be more deeply interested in the outcome of the games than the wives of the famous leaders, Mrs. Mack and Mrs. McGraw.

Both women are ardent fans and know baseball. It is said Mrs. Mack is the only person not on the team who can interpret the signals of her husband as he wigwags with his program from the bench.

Mrs. McGraw is as deeply interested in the Giants as Mrs. Mack is in HER husband's team. She is a regular attendant at the game when the Giants are in New York and will occupy a box seat during the world's series.

A REMINDER

"Now, my little man," said a local golfer pleasantly, "I suppose your papa has told you about the day he and I played in a great match?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ah! That was a great day. I knew he would never forget it. Does he often speak of it?"

"Yes, sir; he says you borrowed five dollars from him that day and never paid it back!"
